Re: Seeking Resident Scholar for 2020-2021

Resident Scholar Position

A Resident Scholar is a full-time graduate student who resides within the SigEp Residential Learning Community to provide regular mentorship to undergraduates and be an example to the Sound Mind/Sound Body philosophy. Resident Scholars focus their efforts on mentoring the organization's executive officers in leadership and facilitating high academic achievement through scholastic programming. The Resident Scholar is provided a private suite in the chapter facility and monetary stipend.

WHO CAN BE A RESIDENT SCHOLAR?

Potential Resident Scholars can be male or female. They can be a SigEp alumnus, an alumnus from another Greek organization, or not previously affiliated with a Greek-letter organization. The Resident Scholar can either be a recent graduate or an older alumnus returning to school for an advanced degree. The individuals selected for this position will be evaluated on the following criteria: academic area of interest, prior leadership roles, overall character and maturity, and prior work and fraternity experience.

WHAT CAN A RESIDENT SCHOLAR DO FOR A CHAPTER?

A Resident Scholar has the following primary responsibilities:

- Assist new members in their acclimation to college life.
- Help older members prepare both personally and professionally for life after college.
- Mentor a chapter's executive board to affect its ability to improve chapter operations and the membership experience.
- Communicate the chapter's progress, goals and metrics to the Alumni and Volunteer Corporation (AVC), the SigEp Headquarters staff and the university.
- Work collaboratively with the chapter's Faculty Fellow to aid in the academic and developmental programming for all members.
- Work one-on-one with chapter brothers who may be struggling inside or outside of the classroom.

RESIDENT SCHOLAR TRAINING

A basic introduction to Sigma Phi Epsilon and the Resident Scholar position is provided by both the Headquarters staff and the local chapter from the onset of the position. Additional training opportunities exist at the Carlson Leadership Academy, Grand Chapter Conclave, and through Miami's Office of Fraternity & Sorority Life.
